

The Rainmaker

A cloudburst of romance, hope and miracles by N. Richard Nash

June 14 - July 3

During the hard years of a dust bowl drought, the Curry family's cattle ranch is on the verge of failure. Hardworking and plain, Lizzie is the only woman in a family of men who are trying to find her a husband. When charismatic traveler Starbuck breezes onto their doorstep, he promises that for $100 he can summon rain to the barren land. The smooth-talking Starbuck turns his magic onto the clouds, Lizzie and the entire Curry family.

Write Me a Murder

A suspenseful thriller by Frederick Knott

July 6 - July 24

Rodingham Manor, a stately but rather run-down 500-year-old English estate, is an ideal setting for the "perfect crime." Mystery writer David reunites with his older brother on the eve of their father's death. Against David's wishes, Clive sells the estate to a brash and unscrupulous businessman, Charles, who convinces David to help his wife, Julie, with her budding writing career. While collaborating, the two craft the perfect murder plot. Will the fictional plot become reality? And if so, who will fall victim to the "perfect crime"?

Ripcord

A comedy of one-up-womanship by David Lindsay-Abaire

July 27 - August 14

Welcome to New Jersey's Bristol Place Senior Living Facility, where the gloriously grumpy Abby plots to evict her new roommate, the perpetually sunny Marilyn. A seemingly harmless bet between the women for the bed by the window quickly escalates into a highly charged duel of emotionally intensifying and outrageous pranks.

I and You

An ode to youth, love and living by Lauren Gunderson

August 17 - September 4

Housebound because of illness, teenager Caroline hasn't been to school in months. Suddenly, classmate Anthony bursts in uninvited, armed with a scruffy copy of Walt Whitman's The Leaves of Grass, a half-finished school project due the next day and waffle fries. As they spar, joke and size each other up, the pair bonds and begin to uncover the mystery that may have brought them together and the strange beauty of human connection.

Murder for Two

A madcap musical whodunit with book and lyrics by Kellen Blair; book and music by Joe Kinosian

September 7 - October 16

This side-splitting mile-a-minute whodunit features two actors, thirteen characters and one piano! Officer Marcus Moscovitz seizes his moment when a famous novelist is murdered and all the detectives are out of town. Marcus jumps at the chance to interview the extravagant and outlandish suspects in an attempt to solve the crime before the real detectives arrive. This 90-minute musical is loaded with killer laughs, sly winks and dual pianists!
